We received investment from Resonance in April 2019 and it was honestly my proudest moment so far, this really catapulted our growth and enabled us to increase our staffing and therefore increase the number of sessions we were able to deliver in our communities, opening up new territories and furthering our reach.

INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the third impact report for Resonance's Health and Wellbeing Challenge Fund (South West) covering the period April 2019 to March 2020 for impact, and August 2019 to July 2020 for investment.

The report celebrates twenty-eight enterprises that have received investment from the Fund. It has truly been amazing to see these enterprises develop and we are proud to play a small part in their journeys.

At the time of writing, we are approaching the end of a year of unprecedented disruption faced by all as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. We have been impressed at how the enterprises we work with have managed to adapt to the challenges they have faced, in order to continue delivering their vital social impact.

Our impact report only ever tells a bit of the story. The real depth and flavour behind each enterprise and the difference they make in our region can only be discovered by speaking with them directly. So please, engage with them where you can.

The Fund has been made possible thanks to the backing of Big Society Capital, The National Lottery Communities Fund (both managed via Access) and the South West Academic Health Science Network.

ABOUT THE FUND

The Fund has now fully committed the first £3.5 million of its initial capital into a wide range of social enterprises delivering Health and Wellbeing outcomes to people and communities in the South West.

In spring 2020, we were thrilled to agree to a £1.2 million extension of the Fund with Big Society Capital and The National Lottery Communities Fund, enabling us to continue making investments until January 2022. We have also expanded our geography to include Bristol and Bath, Dorset, Gloucestershire and Wiltshire.

The Fund's goal is to support pioneering social enterprises seeking to scale their impact in the health and wellbeing space. In response to the pandemic, a number of grants were made by the Fund directly this year alongside unsecured loans and permanent capital investments.

The Fund managers are dedicated to supporting remarkable enterprises reach the place they want to be, by offering direct support, building a regional network, and sharing their stories.

It is very difficult times, and going forwards we are all going to have to adapt to a new way of working. The Resonance team are very supportive and try to help where ever they can.

COVID-19 SUPPORT

Resonance understood quickly that the lockdowns and changing landscapes were going to be tough for many of the enterprises in the Health and Wellbeing Challenge Fund. We immediately provided summary information and guidance on the many different government support packages.

With the backing and support of our investors and others, we were also able to respond swiftly to the financial challenges posed by the initial emergence of COVID-19. This included offering repayment holidays to all the investees, with nine taking immediate advantage. Thirteen enterprises were provided with £195,500 of direct grants from the Fund to adapt their businesses. A further thirteen investee enterprises applied to the Social Enterprise Support Fund (SESF), between them accessing just over £391,000 of grant support. The SESF provided COVID-19 response grants and was delivered by Resonance and four partners nationally, with funding from The National Lottery Community Fund.
